

Press Release

Contact: Andy Hlawek
Tel: 480.621.3820
E-mail: ahlawek@micronanoinc.com

MicroNano, Inc Announces an Environmentally Friendly, Cost Effective Parts Cleaning Process for High-Tech Industry Manufacturers

Mesa, AZ (November 13, 2009) – MicroNano, Inc., a privately held outsourced parts cleaning and services provider to high-tech industry manufacturers, announces their grand opening in Mesa, Arizona. Providing fast, cost-effective, quality services and comprehensive solutions MicroNano's products and services include an industry proven non-destructive, non-abrasive, residue-free and environmentally friendly process for parts cleaning using, dry, green CO2 as well as traditional methods.

"MicroNano's products and services will assist manufacturers of semiconductors, solar devices, aerospace products, industrial machining and medical equipment reduce their costs and remain competitive in this ever changing environment," said Andy Hlawek, President of MicroNano, Inc. "Committed to using only high quality materials and best-known-methods we guarantee our customers ISO9001 certified standards on all work performed."

No excuses, no additional charges, no additional time! MicroNano realizes a job is not finished until the customer is back in production. With over 100 years of combined experience the team at MicroNano is unique in the level of expertise it provides to customers. With a wealth of experience in process knowledge, process development and a unique understanding of the industry needs, customers look to MicroNano for services ranging from critical cleaning applications to customized process and hardware applications.

Through strategic alliances and ground-up construction, MicroNano, Inc will be known worldwide as the industry service provider operating with the highest integrity as well as the leading provider of repair services in the underserved niche markets customers' are requesting.

For more about MicroNano, Inc, visit their website at <http://www.micronanoinc.com>.

Media Contact

Andy Hlawek
President
480-621-3820
ahlawek@micronanoinc.com